

Faculty of Science & Technology Syllabus of Final Year B. Tech (Artificial Intelligence and Data Science / Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Data Science) (Semester VII)
Course Code: AID422 Course: Mobile Application Development Laboratory Teaching Scheme: Practical- 2 Hrs./week	Credits: 0-0-1 Teacher Assessment: 25 Marks End Semester Oral Examination: 25 Marks
Prerequisite	Python programming, Data visualization
Objectives	1. To design and develop Android applications using Android Studio. 2. To implement UI components, data storage, and third-party service integration in mobile apps. 3. To gain hands-on experience in testing, deployment, and publishing Android applications.
List of Experiments	1. Create a “Hello Android” app using Android Studio. 2. Design login screen using UI components and event handlers. 3. Build a SQLite-based app to store and retrieve student records. 4. Create an app to display weather using a public REST API. 5. Develop an app with Firebase Authentication. 6. Design an app with location tracking using Google Maps API. 7. Build an app to capture images and store in internal storage. 8. Create a multi-screen app using Fragments and Intents. 9. Develop a background music player using Services. 10. Publish a signed APK on a test Play Store account.